

Royal Statistical Society's 2013 honours announced

The RSS has announced its honours for 2013, having been decided by Council in January. The awards will be presented to the recipients at a ceremony held during the Society's annual conference in Newcastle on 3 September 2013.

The Greenfield Industrial Medal is awarded to Ron Kenett for his extensive work in the development and application of statistics in business and industry, and in recognition of his significant and sustained contributions as author, teacher and active practitioner. Through his consulting work he has promoted the use of statistical methods across a wide range of strategic business activities, including Six Sigma quality systems, risk management and surveys of customers and employees.
